CONNELLSVILLE DISTRICT QUOTA FOR VICTORY LOAN DRIVE IS CUT TO $787,300

City Alone Asked to Absorb $732,950, Official Figures Today Show.

UNIONTOWN LEADS COUNTY

That District Only One to be Assigned More Than Million; Apportionment Amounts to 55 Per Cent of the Subscriptions of the Fourth Loan

Connellsville district's quota for the Victory-Liberty Loan will be considerably under a million dollars instead of in excess of it according to the official figures announced this morning by Vice Chairman W Russell Carr of the county organization which places the exact figure at $787 00 apportioned as follows

Connellsville ... $732,950
South Connellsville ... 20 100
Connellsville township ... 34,250

Fifty-five per cent of the total subscription made in the Fourth Liberty Loan campaign is assigned each district in Fayette county as its quota in the Victory Loan in the apportionment of the $6 049 550 county quota among the various districts announced by Vice Chairman Carr The county quota is just 55 per cent of the total subscriptions made in the Fourth Loan Taking these figures as the basis Mr Carr believes he has distributed the county quota equitably among the 40 districts upon a basis of concrete financial strength based upon actual subscription to the Fourth Liberty Loan

Uniontown is the only district asked to absorb more than one million dollars worth of the four-year Victory notes The county seat is given a quota of $1 326 500 In the Fourth Liberty Loan Uniontown subscribed a total of $2 411 800 while total subscriptions in the three Connellsville districts aggregated $1,231,350 There is a difference of $549,200 between the quotas for the two cities in the Fifth Loan

Quotas for previous loans were based upon the assessed valuation of property within the district That system worked out however to place a comparatively small quota upon cities and more populous centers of the county while the outlying townships with their immense coal acreage were assigned quotas which seemed out of proportion to the population The assessed valuation basis of quota fixing worked very successfully after reconciling the two extremes but Mr Carr believes that in the percentage of actual subscriptions taken in the previous loan he has made an improvement upon that system

"Treat 'Em Rough" veterans of months of hard fighting with the British at St Quentin and Cambrai will man the tanks Sunday at the demonstration in Uniontown and on the tour of the county Monday John Abraham, Elmer Monahan and Mike Hudock all Uniontown boys who served with the crack 331st Heavy Tank Battalion will maneuver the tanks Sunday afternoon and drive them over the county Monday All three boys saw hard fighting on the British front Monahan being awarded the Distinguished Service Medal

28TH DIVISION ENROUTE TO PORT OF EMBARKATION

The 110th Infantry and other units of the 28th or Keystone Division are homeward bound Part of the 111th Infantry sailed from Brest yesterday day before and the remainder of the division is today under movement from Le Mans to Brest the port of embarkation from which it will shortly sail for Home

This information is given in cablegrams received by the War Department in Washington and at the office of the adjutant general at Harrisburg

The field and staff officers headquarters and supply companies and five companies of the 111th Infantry are aboard the transport Minnesota and are expected to arrive in New York about April 27 The exact sailing date of the remaining units of the division has not been announced but it is presumed that the embarkation will take place within a few days depending, of course upon the number and capacity of transports at or approaching the port of Brest

It has sometimes happened that incoming troops have been marched directly from the trains to the docks at Brest and embarked without delay But more frequently has it been necessary for them to remain in the debarkation camp to await the arrival of transports At times this period has been a week at others it has been a month or longer It is therefore, more or less uncertain as to when the bulk of the division will actually set sail for home

May 3 is the first anniversary of the date of the departure of the division for France after a tremendous training period of eight months at Camp Hancock

FIREMEN RESCUE MAN CUT OFF BY SMOKE AT Y. M. C. A.

Damage totaling approximately $300 resulted from a fire in the cellar of the Baltimore & Ohio Y M C A building yesterday afternoon between 3 30 and 4 o clock The flames originated in a pile of rubbish and had gained fairly good headway before they were discovered and the firemen called out

The fire was first noticed when Elmer Porter saw smoke issuing from the building he told Corneman Rulli who turned in an alarm from Brimstone corner

The flames were confined to the rear part of the basement beneath the gymnasium The fire appeared to be much greater than it was however as clouds of smoke issued from every window The firemen made quick work of the blaze once the big hose reached the flames

One thriller of the fire was the rescue of William Hipwell of Greensburg from the building The halls were filled with smoke and he could not get out that way He was cut off from the fire escape as the door to the room opening on it was locked A fireman broken open the door but Hipwell would not leave until he had secured his suitcases in which he had packed his clothing

Fire Chief DeBolt said this morning it was the first cellar fire since he has been with the department—three years Rubbish accumulated in cleaning out the building was allowed to gather in the basement This would not have been permitted the chief said had there been an inspection, but no work of this kind has been done for six months owing to a shortage of men on the department

Secretary W F Underwood had just left the building about 15 minutes before the alarm was turned in He noticed the truck go past in the street but it was some time later when he learned the Y was burning

"FROLIC" DIFFERENT

Benefit for Soldiers' Home-Coming Assuming Metropolitan Aspect.

The "Winter Garden Frolic," the musical revue to be produced by local players for the home-coming celebration fund, is rapidly assuming the aspect of a real New York winter garden show. The rehearsal at the Carnegie library last night was devoted entirely to the male members of the cast and chorus and C. M. Couch, under whose direction the revue is to be presented, expressed great gratification at the progress shown.

This show is very different from anything theatrical ever attempted by Connellsville Thespians before and is, as the name implies, a real metropolitan revue in which the jokes, songs and scenery, wardrobes and light effects will be used in the production.

CORPORAL BYRON PORTER

Passes a Rigid Examination and is Taking a University Course.

Byron Porter is in receipt of a letter from his grandson, Corporal Byron S. Porter, of Company G, 52nd Infantry, whose battalion is located near the Swiss border. They have been there for quite a while.

Corporal Porter and two others of his company passed a rigid examination and are now receiving the advantages of a university course of education along business lines. As preparation for his examination he regards his course in the Connellsville high school as most useful.

He was in the last drive before the armistice was signed, and has seen about all the ups and downs of army life. He says he is well and has not been sick since he left home, and has gained about 20 pounds.

He says he is enjoying the university course which will be a great benefit after his return to civil life. He hears nothing about their division being sent home; it may be several months yet. He asks to be remembered to all of his friends at home. He was near the city of Besancon, but is now near Dijon, France.

LONG DISCUSSION BY GERMANS IS NOT TO BE PERMITTED

By Associated Press

According to present plans the Allies' terms of peace may not be laid before the Germans before Sunday of next week and it may not be until the following Monday that the enemy delegates learn the details of the treaty that they will be asked to sign. This will delay proceedings to some extent, it is believed, and it is not expected that the German delegation can go to Weimar, receive instructions and return to Paris before May 8

According to plans formulated at the conference the German delegates will be permitted to ask questions to elucidate obscure points but nothing approaching a discussion of the terms will be permitted. Only President Wilson and the Allied premiers will be present when the terms are presented to the Germans It is expected the League of Nations will have the place of honor in the terms to be presented

Japan will bring before the council of four on Saturday the subject of Kiao Chau, the German fortress in the far east and it is expected that a decision will be announced soon. Premier Clemenceau who refused on Wednesday to join in the conditional agreement to feed Russia through neutral nations has at last attached his name to the undertaking Letters exchanged between the council of four and the committee in charge of sending supplies to the Russians indicate that conditions in Russia are critical

Conflicting claims to the city of Fiume and the Dalmatian coast which have been laid before the peace conference in Paris by Italy and Jugo-Slavia probably will be brought to a decision soon if efforts to be exerted by the Italian delegation bear fruit.

This controversy one of the most troublesome to be considered by the conference has aroused public sentiment in Italy and when the Italian parliament meets April 24 it is probable Premier Orlando will be asked for a report on the subject Hence he is said especially to desire a settlement before that date.

Conversations on the Adriatic problems have been going on in Paris for some time but it is indicated that a settlement has not yet been reached

EAT LESS AND TAKE SALTS FOR KIDNEYS

Take a Glass of Salts If Your Back Hurts or Bladder Bothers.

The American men and women must guard constantly against kidney trouble because we eat too much and all our food is rich Our blood is filled with uric acid which the kidneys strive to filter out, they weaken from overwork, become sluggish the eliminative tissues clog and the result is kidney trouble, bladder weakness and a general decline in health

When your kidneys feel like lumps of lead, your back hurts or the urine is cloudy full of sediment or you are obliged to seek relief two or three times during the night if you suffer with sick headache or dizzy, nervous spells acid stomach, or you have rheumatism when the weather is bad, get from your pharmacist about four ounces of Jad Salts take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days and your kidneys will then act fine. This famous salts is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice combined with lithia and has been used for generations to flush and stimulate clogged kidneys, to neutralize the acids in the urine so it no longer is a source of irritation thus ending bladder disorders

Jad Salts is inexpensive, cannot injure, makes a delightful effervescent lithia-water beverage and belongs in every home, because nobody can make a mistake by having a good kidney flushing any time.—Adv

A GLAD AND A SAD EASTER.

Easter 1919 will be both a glad day and a sad day. Glad and joyous as was the first Easter morn because of the recurring commemoration of that event in history which is richest in the promise of eternal life. Glad because the great conflict which made Europe a shambles and a house of mourning for more than four years has ceased and the recently warring nations are soon to conclude a treaty of peace.

The sadness the day will bring will arise from a contemplation of the lamentable fact that after the practice of the religion of Jesus by so large a part of the world for over 1,900 years, men have so imperfectly learned its precepts and have so stubbornly refused to follow the examples of its Great Teacher.

The day will be tinged with sadness because bitter hatred fills the hearts of so many to the exclusion of the Christ spirit; that even yet so many men have the inclination to yield to the brute instinct to kill, maim and destroy instead of seeking to bind up wounds, heal the sick and comfort the distressed. Sad because so many lives are still ruled by selfishness and their actions inspired by an ambition for place, gain and power instead of first seeking the Kingdom of God and His righteousness. Sad because so few have learned or given willing recognition to the obligation that they are indeed their brother's keeper, but persist in living for themselves alone. Sad because the hopes and aspirations of the human race that the spirit of the risen Christ may rule in the hearts of men everywhere, are so far from being realized.

Yet, withal, the day will be glad. Made so by the precious knowledge many persons have gained that service is the true measure of worth; glad because forgetfulness of self in doing things for others, without hope of preferment or expectation of reward, has been exemplified in so high degree that this rediscovered virtue has been given a new meaning and exalted to a new place in the consciences of men.

To the degree that this knowledge has begotten a firmer faith in the promise of the Resurrection, and has made surer our belief that God's in His Heaven and that all will be right with the world when men get right with God, will this Easter be more glad and less sad.

GIVE COUNCILMEN YOUR VIEWS.

The plan for remodeling the city hall so as to provide facilities for storing a part of our fire fighting apparatus is so feasible and practicable that it will appeal to every resident of the East Side who is interested in providing better fire protection for this section of the city.

There is no longer need for argument as to the desirability for locating a fire station on this side of the river. The reasons are so plain, and have been set forth by so many persons and at so many different times, that it is unnecessary to repeat them. As the matter now stands it is simply one of actually doing something to make the plan effective. The suggestion of Dr. Uffs is the best that has been made, short of the erection of a new building to serve as a central fire station. That being out of the question at present the best interests of the city, of merchants and property owners will be served by completing the plan with as little waste of time as possible.

Members of the city council are desirous of taking such action as will best meet the situation and at the same time be in accord with the wishes of tax payers and the payers of fire insurance premiums. That the members of council may know how individual citizens feel on this proposition opportunity should be taken by the latter to make known their views to the former. A number have already given their approval of the plan of Doctor Uffs. There are many others who feel the same way about it. That there may be no misunderstanding as to the sentiment on the proposed improvement there should be even more general expressions of opinion. Councilmen are not adverse to being advised but the absence of of a manifestation of interest by the people in a matter before council, the members of that body are sometimes in doubt as to whether or no the bulk of the people really want what a few of the more alive and wide-awake citizens favor. In the case of establishing a fire station on the East Side there should be no apathy on the part of the residents. It is a matter which concerns all of them and they should take some means of showing it. There is no better way of doing so than making your wishes known to the members of council.

Tell them they have struck on a good plan and urge that there be no delay in putting it through.

The plaintive S. O. S. call, "Burleson wrecking the party. Remove him," which the president of the Democratic Club of Massachusetts and eleven members of the legislature of that state sent to President Wilson yesterday, is not likely to be treated as news by the public and certainly will not be so regarded by the real Democrats. It may, however, inspire fear in the heart of the President lest his own ability as party wrecker suffer some loss of prestige.

Easter services are at the same hour tomorrow as regular sevices last Sunday.

The President has ordered the reopening of the steel price adjustment but he remains consistently silent about driving any wedge into the high cost of living, to do which he once solemnly pledged all the strength and power of the Democratic party. But that was in the days when the party had some strength in the union of its once discordant elements and the power of a majority in Congress.

Subscribers to the Victory-Liberty Loan must not get the idea that they are making a gift to Uncle Sam. The giving is all the other way—the giving of an opportunity to make the safest investment in the world.

This is the greatest day in the history of the 28th Division, if you were to ask what the boys of that unit think of the order to go aboard trains for the port of embarkation for home.

The shoulders of the coal and coke industry have been weighted with some heavy loads during the war but it will still be found to have its backbone in the right place and in the right condition when it comes to carrying its share of the Victory-Liberty Loan.

If the Hogg field south of Snyder street does not present obstacles to test the tank they may be found farther down Connell run in the vicinity of "Soap Hollow."

There's a challenge to civilian bond boosters as well as to service men in the slogan of Lieutenant Robinson: "Don't let go before the last dog is hung."

The spirit you have in your heart, not the creation you have on your head or on your back, will be the test of the meaning of Easter to you tomorrow.

The Finishing Touches

Uncle Sam's khaki-clad doughboys, once they got to the firing line, lost little time in bringing the fight to a Garrison finish. It wasn't so much that they were markedly superior fighters, that they were better than the veterans, but they liked the game. They infused new spirit, new courage, new hope into the staggering legions of French and British whom the Hun had been pounding relentlessly.

"They went over the top like they were going to a feast," as General Mangin put it. They didn't fight and fall back. They kept going ahead. And they beat the Boche at his own game. From that initial clash at Chateau-Thierry they never stopped pushing on. It was the Boche who fired and fell back thereafter. And that kept up until the armistice was signed.

The American doughboy struck the first note of real terror to the Hun heart. Just as America's army, constantly increasing, brought consternation to the German general staff. Together they forced the armistice. And now at the peace table at Versailles Uncle Sam is playing a big part just as he did in the closing days of the war. He will make himself felt just as the doughboy did.

But after all is said and done it is finally for us stay-at-homes to put on the finishing touches. We didn't get to the front; we fought no battles; we suffered no wounds; we lost no legs, nor arms, nor eyes. But we can finish paying the simple money cost. That's our bit now as it always has been. And we must do that part gladly.

Put Uncle Sam's Victory-Liberty Loan over big.

LIFE'S VOLUME.

When life's last page before us lies
And we have grown so old and wise
From pondering the volume through
What shall we gather in review.
What but some loved one's lovely smile.
Shall we determine most worth while?

There at the ending of life's book
We'll turn for just one backward look
And come to find that home and friends
Are life's best treasures when life ends,
The gold we gathered and the fame
Vanished as swiftly as they came.

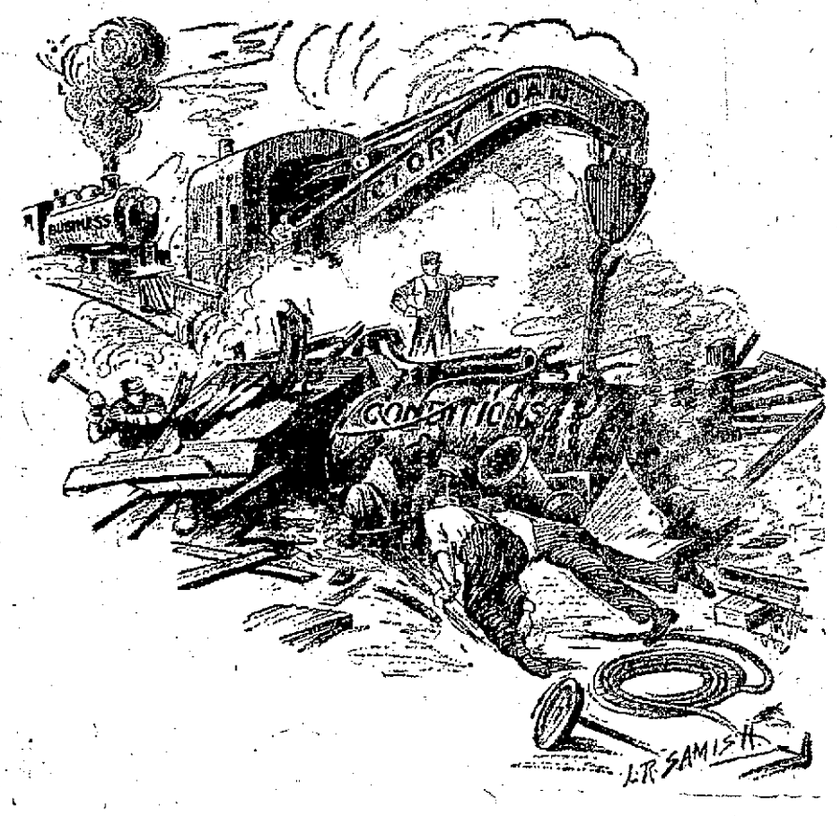

The early chapters when we dreamed
Were not as glorious as they seemed.
Then we were hot for strife and sought
The distant goals for which men fought,
Envied, were envied in our turn,
And quarreled over self's concern.

Here were great disappointments met
That caused us sorrow and regret
Yet we outlived them all, and faced
The next day's labor, undisgraced.
And found this truth, through good or ill
The loyal friend is loyal still.

Much that we toiled for, craved and got,
Thought worthy once, now matters not
But that which counted we shall find
Was when another called us kind.
And those days at our best were spent
Which left us rich with sentiment.

When life's last page before us lies
And we have learned its volume wise
We shall not count our coins of gold
Nor live the days when we were bold
The days that saw our loved ones smile
Will be the joys we hold worth while.

Big Stocks on Hand and Business Depression

Here's a great opportunity for bargains. We have just passed through the greatest business boom ever in the history of our stores; we prepared for a continuation of it and here we are in the midst of a business depression, which means loss of busines, no demand, and big stocks on hand. We merely call your attention to this so that you will understand there are now wonderful opportunities for big bargains at our stores. The goods are all bought right, prices are right, and the stocks must be reduced. It would be a great advantage to people living in nearby towns or in the rural sections, to patronize our stores. There is no doubt about the assortment of stock, the quality of the stock, no doubt about prices—we are lower than cost competition. This not only applies to foodstuffs but every other department in our stores, particularly dry goods, shoes, furniture, furnishings, etc. For furniture and house furnishings you will do better at our stores. Bear in mind that we operate regular department stores, most anything you can think of for sale, and every department now overloaded full tilt. It is a bargain time, a money-saving opportunity, and would be to your interest to visit and buy from the nearest store in your locality.

NEWS OF INTEREST FROM PECHIN AND NEARBY TERRITORY

Abraham Brooks Taken to Cottage State Hospital, Connellsville, for an Operation.

PECHIN, Apr. 18—Abraham Brooks of Ferguson was taken to the Cottage State hospital, Connellsville, yesterday afternoon to undergo an operation for appendicitis. Mr. Brooks has been suffering with an attack of that malady for the past two weeks, and as he wished to avoid, if possible, an operation his physician, Dr. E. B. Gulic, made every effort to scatter the inflammation and was apparently succeeding. Yesterday morning, however, Mr. Brooks suffered an acute attack and an operation was imperative. The patient was rushed to the hospital. Mr. Brooks is a coal miner.

David S. McDowell, the "little-big" brother-in-law of J. B. Senor, after a sojourn of a year in West Virginia in search of renewed health, has returned to Mr. Senor's much improved in health and practically rid of the rheumatism which had been bothering him for several years. His return gave his relatives and friends here quite an agreeable surprise, and all are glad to see him back in a civilized community where the howl of the catamount and the scream of the wildcat will not disturb his slumbers. The rumor that he had married a wealthy widow in the Mountain State proves to be false. He is yet a bachelor and declares he is likely to remain one.

Mrs. Mary Lehman of Keffers was at Republic Monday afternoon visiting relatives.

Mr. and Mrs. James Miller of Mount Pleasant were over Sunday visitors of the former's parents, Mr. and Mrs. E. E. Miller of Keffers.

Mrs. C. W. Baker of Pechin was at Scottdale Monday visiting her sister, Mrs. Lilly Coughenour, who is ill.

The real April weather of the past few days leaves no doubt in the minds of any that an old-fashioned April is on the job. Fifteen changes in a single day ought to be enough to arouse the envy of the most fickle and satisfy lovers of variety.

Mrs. Isaac Minerd of Connellsville was visiting Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Bryner of Keffers yesterday.

The West Penn trolley company has put in about 500 new cross ties between Keffers and Ferguson during the past fortnight and are putting in many all along the line. The track is in better condition and smoother than at any time since the line was built, and better service is being given than for several months.

Mrs. C. W. Baker has received another parcel of war relics from her son Herbert (Mike) in France. Among them is a German canteen. A bunch of hand-painted postals was also enclosed. Mrs. Baker has already quite an interesting collection and still more are expected.

Paul Provance of McClellandtown was visiting relatives at Dunbar and Pechin this week. He used to live here, in fact was born near Keffers and located at McClellandtown a few months ago.

Edward E. Miller of Keffers is making extensive improvements in his property and improving the appearance of his lot by the erection of a new paling fence.

THE RISEN CHRIST

Easter Always Anniversary of Deliverance of Wonderful Message of Hope.

THE joy of the Christian soul is expressed at Easter in such a volume of song as rises upon no other day of the year. In the wealth of flowers that adorn altars, in the music of choirs and the praise of the children in their exercises are found the manifestation of the joy of hearts overflowing with the happiness of a renewed hope of life. It is the anniversary of the deliverance of the greatest message of hope the world has ever received, summed up in the three little words: "He Is Risen." It is the Christian "victory day"—Easter.

Most men everywhere at all times have had some sort of idea of immortality. It seems to be an inherent quality in humankind. The doctrine of the resurrection is not an entirely new one. Even the pagan before us had a glimpse of the truth and was moved to recognize it in his own way. Nature herself proclaims the doctrine and in every bursting bud of springtime and the new songs of the birds we read a confirmation of our belief in a future life. Nature rejoices along with men in a realization of the glory of life, for that which was dead is alive again.

Brought Light to World.

But while we see in nature the symbols of the great truth of the resurrection and delight in the pleasing processes of the breaking forth of new life in the natural world, the Christian has something deeper and more firm than nature upon which to base his belief of immortality. The materialist may seek to read his future in the natural world, but the Christian derives his chief hope from a different source, a source no less than the message from God himself. When Jesus broke the bonds of death and became "the first fruits of them that slept" He at the same time became the hope of all humanity. Before Him, the way was dark and shrouded in mystery, but on that first Easter morning He threw a flood of light upon the gates of eternity, which illumined the way for all and settled the question of immortality forever.

It is but natural that the anniversary of such a day should be celebrated with various manifestations of joy, but amid the songs and the flowers and the pageantry of our celebrations the great motive of the day should not be lost sight of. Things that minister to the esthetic sense should not be allowed to overshadow the appeal to the spirit. If Easter brings no heartening message to a soul wearied with worldly cares, no new inspiration to take hold of the things worth while with a firmer grip, no new feeling of citizenship in the eternal, our songs and flowers and pomp and pageantry, however beautiful, are of momentary value.

Divine Easter Message.

The message that Easter brings to the individual has a very direct bearing upon his life, for what one believes about the future life may largely determine his character, and even his eternal destiny. One may even go further and say what a nation believes about the hereafter determines the character of its government in its practical dealing at home and abroad, and the character of the national life. The man or nation that is not restrained by the feeling that there is another world in which there will be a higher justice and a continued life of some sort, is dangerous.

Passing over the strictly religious element in the resurrection of Christ, momentarily, let us remember that history was made on that first Easter morning. When the devoted women went down to the tomb of the Lord upon their mission of love, it was given to them to hear the announcement from an angel that was to turn the tide of history and to give impetus to the movement of uplifting men that is still gathering force today. Jesus was a great teacher and He gave to the world its best principles and precepts. But there have been other good teachers of morals and religion, and, who knows but that His teachings would not have perished with Him if He had not risen from the dead and become the living inspiration for the millions who were to come after him. Herein lies the distinctive difference between Christ and other teachers and between Christianity and other codes of morals and religion. Christian worship is directed toward a person and does not consist in veneration of a dead leader and slavish adherence to a rule of life or set of regulations. Above all Christianity is not a philosophy, but a life, drawing its inspiration from a living Christ, and having a universal appeal because it speaks the language of love.

Religion Imperishable.

Such a religion can not be "beaten." It has all the qualities of the imperishable, and so long as the church maintains steadfast its belief in the resurrection it can not be conquered by all the hosts of evil.

The resurrection of Christ was the supreme victory of the ages, and not even was the overwhelming defeat of the Hun hosts battling on the western front a greater one. For we may say that if Jesus Christ had not lived and died as He did and had not risen from the dead and had not inspired the men of the great free nations of the world with the love of humanity, of human brotherhood and justice, there would be none to sacrifice themselves today against the most powerfully organized system of greed and inhumanity the world has known.

The hope inspired by the resurrection of Christ has lifted the nations gradually but surely out of the welter of selfishness. If there were no future we might as well not make the sacrifices, and the strongest might go his way as in the brute world.

Not since the early days of the church has the doctrine of the resurrection and the future life been so strongly vindicated as in the present time when millions of free men voluntarily gave up their lives for the great Christian principles underlying the establishment of free nations. Rushing in to do their duty, they calmly trusted the future to God. Fatalism could never make the fight for liberty and justice that civilization is making today. Only the Christianity of the resurrected Christ is capable of inspiring the effort.

It was a great day for the world when the angelic choir announced to shepherds the birth of the Savior, but it was a greater day when this same Savior rose victorious over the grave and gave to mankind the hope that has carried them onward and upward and will continue to bear them as they approach to the perfection of their Master.

Eggs, at Easter.

The use of Easter eggs is common to all Christendom, and seems to be a symbolic tradition of the primitive church. It is explained in various ways. The most probable theory is that because of the phenomenon of hatching it was chosen as a symbol of the resurrection. At first the Easter eggs were taken to the temple and blessed by the priest, and then distributed to one's friends and family. But after awhile they came to stand merely for a festival, when they could eat the eggs that had been denied them during Lent. It is impossible to say when the first mention is made of Easter eggs.

Only One Possible Life Giver.

It is certain that a strong belief in the resurrection was the chief strength of the early church and its preaching encouraged the early converts to endure all things. "A dead Christ might have been a teacher and wonder worker, and remembered and loved as such. But only a Risen and Living Christ could be the Savior, the Life and the Life Giver to all men."

"CAP" STUBBS. SAMMY KNEW WHAT PART HE'D PLAY. By EDWINA

"WOW" BECKETT, ENGLISH HEAVYWEIGHT, CHALLENGES WINNER OF BIG TITLE BOUT

W. O. W. Beckett, recent recruit to the regiment of pugilists who have knocked out Bombardier Wells, has cabled Tex Rickard that he wants to meet the winner of the Willard-Dempsey fight. "Wow" evidently has had it explained to him that Rickard is paying Willard 20,000 guineas, gold or pounds for one bout.

Doesn't Worry Rickard.

Rickard does not consider that knocking out Wells puts anybody in line for the heavyweight championship, writes W. O. McGeehan in New York Tribune. Benning the Bombardier has been one of the most popular sports indulged in by various French, British and American heavyweights. It always has been considered a safe and sane pastime to hang one on the Bombardier's jaw. The Bombardier has dusted the rosin from his trunks more often than any heavyweight in the world with the possible exception of Arthur Pelky.

Beckett's Backers Serious.

Beckett's backers take him very seriously, however, and the chances are that he will be flitting over this way very soon. The news of the $127,500 purse has caused some feverish excitement in the ranks of the British boxers and enough pugilistic immigrants will soon be on the way to take the places of the emigrants who have beat it through Ambrose channel to evade the long, dry spell to come.

Paul Burry, former Notre Dame university pitcher, who signed with the New York Giants for trial, but concluded he preferred fighting in France to baseball as a profession, has returned to the States a sufferer from shell shock. Both got special mention for this stunt.

SUGGESTION BY HANK O'DAY

Veteran Arbiter Wants Rules Amended to Give Umpire on Bases Joint Jurisdiction on Balks.

Hank O'Day, the veteran umpire of the National league, has made a fine suggestion to President Heydler of the National league. It is his opinion that the baseball rules should be so amended that the base umpire would have joint jurisdiction with the one at the plate in calling balks on pitchers. O'Day declares that the position of the base umpire is usually more advantageous in the matter of detecting such faults.

OLDSMOBILE MAKES EXCELLENT RECORD IN FIRE SERVICE

Chief's Car Travels 65,000 Miles and Still Is in Service and Good for Long Time.

"Eleven years ago when Chief Hugo R. Delfs of the Lansing, Michigan, Fire Department, purchased an Oldsmobile roadster to replace his horse and buggy in answering fire alarms, he created somewhat of a sensation," said V. J. Clark, of the Connellsville Garage company, local Oldsmobile dealer. "At that time his car was the fourth automobile in America to serve in this capacity. Of course, people said it wasn't practical, said it was sure to break down at the most inopportune moment and predicted that it would not be long before the chief would return to his faithful horse.

"It is easy to imagine then; how much greater a sensation was created when Chief Delfs persuaded the council of the city to also place in service an automobile pumping engine, the first of its kind in the entire country. This, by the way, was also an Oldsmobile.

"During all the 10 years in which he used his car every day, summer and winter, the chief says he has never had the slightest occasion to regret his purchase. He has driven an average of 6,500 miles per year, or a total of 65,000 miles. Naturally the major part of this distance was covered at high speed in answering alarms, the most gruelling kind of work for an automobile. Beginning the day it was put into service a careful record has been kept of operating and maintenance costs. For 3,660 days the total expense amounted to $2,240.69 or approximately three and one-half cents per mile. This expense includes all repairs and replacements, tires, fuel and oil. And the best part of it is that the car is still as good a worker as ever.

"Last fall the Lansing department required an extra piece of equipment to serve as a supply wagon. So, instead of buying a new machine for this purpose, the commissioners purchased a new model 45-eight cylinder Oldsmobile for the chief's personal use and transformed the old Oldsmobile into a supply wagon. With a box body built onto the rear and a new coat of paint no one would ever suspect that it had seen any service at all, let alone 10 strenuous years of it. The chief's new car, which he has had for a little over three months has already run more than 3,000 miles without requiring a single repair."

OLD LONDON BELL FOUNDRIES

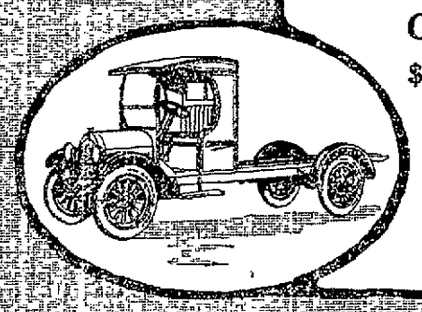

Relics of Many of Them Are Still to Be Found Scattered Through the British Capital.

In the days before clocks to say nothing of watches, were common the bells of London occupied a much more important position than they do today. 'Prentices depended on this bell and that to call them very unwillingly to work of a morning and release them very willingly from work of an evening, whilst bells were requisitioned for all manner of special purposes. And so there were many bell foundries in the city. Relics of them are found in many places, even if it is only a street name, such as Bellfitter street, which, as Mr. Landfear Lucas points out, was undoubtedly Bell-sitzers or Founders' lane. Then Belsize probably owes its name, he declares, to a bell foundry on the lower part of Hampstead hill. Something of this sort is all that remains of many of them, but others, like the Whitechapel Bell foundry, which has been charged with retuning and rehanging the bells of Westminster abbey for the peace rejoicings, have continued to do business through the centuries. The foundry commenced business in 1570.

"He will not return," she said quietly. "He is a coward at heart. Oh, I know him well," she went on, scorn in her voice.

"Was I wrong in not trying to stop him?" he asked.

She pondered this for a moment. "No," she said, but he caught the dubious note in her voice. "It is just as well, perhaps, that he should disappear. His flight today spares—but we are more interested in the man Sprouse. Has he returned?"

"No, Miss Cameron," said he ruefully. And then, without a single reservation, he laid bare the story of Sprouse's defection. When he inquired if she had heard of the man known as Chester Naismith, she confirmed his worst fear by describing him as the guard who watched beneath her window. He was known to her as a thief of international fame.

"You were no match for Chester Naismith. Do not look so glum. The shrewdest police officers in Europe have never been able to cope with him. Why should you despair?"

He sprang to his feet. "By gad, he hasn't got away with it yet," he grated. "I will run this scoundrel down if I have to devote the remainder of my life to the task."

She sighed. "Alas, I fear that I shall have to tell you a little more about this wonderful man you know as Sprouse. Six months ago the friends and supporters of the legitimate successor to my country's throne consummated a plan whereby the crown jewels and certain documents of state were surreptitiously removed from the palace vaults. Instead of depositing the treasure in Paris, it was sent to this country in charge of a group of men whose fealty could not be questioned. The man you know as Loeb is in reality my cousin. I have known him all my life. He is the youngest brother of the pretender to the throne, and a cousin of the prince who is held prisoner by the Austrians. This prince has a brother also, and it was to him that I was supposed to deliver the jewels. I traveled from New York, but not alone as you may suspect. I was carefully protected from the time I left my hotel there until—well, until I arrived in Boston.

"While there I received a secret message from friends in Canada directing me to go to Spanish Falls, where I would be met and conducted by Prince Sebastian himself to the place called Green Fancy, which was near the Canadian border. A safe escort would be provided for us, and we would be on British soil within a few hours after our meeting. It is only necessary to add that when I arrived at Green Fancy I met Prince Ugo—and understood! I had carefully covered my tracks after leaving Boston. My real friends were, and still are, completely in the dark as to my movements, so skilfully was the trick managed.

"And now for Chester Naismith. It was he who, acting for the misguided loyalists and recommended by certain young aristocrats who by virtue of their own dissipations had come to know him as a man of infinite resourcefulness and daring, planned and carried out the pillaging of the palace vaults. Almost under the noses of the foreign guards he succeeded in obtaining the jewels. No doubt he could have made off with them at that time, but he shrewdly preferred to have them brought to America by some one else. It would have been impossible for him to dispose of them in Europe. You see how cunning he is?

"He was no doubt thwarted in his design to waylay me on the road from Spanish Falls by a singular occurrence in this tavern. He was attacked in his room here, overpowered, bound and gagged by two men. He knew the men. They were thieves as clever and as merciless as himself. They too were watching for me. I do not know how these men learned of my intention to come to Green Fancy."

"They came to the Tavern four or five days before your arrival at Green Fancy," Barnes interrupted. "Sprouse told me that they were secret service men from abroad and that he was working with them. My theory is this, and I think it is justified by events: The men were really secret agents, sent here to watch the movements of the gang up there. They came upon Sprouse and recognized him. On the day mentioned they overpowered him and forced him to reveal certain facts connected with affairs at Green Fancy. Possibly he led them to believe that you were one of the conspirators. They waited for your arrival and then risked the hazardous trip to Green Fancy. They were discovered and shot."

"I believe you are right," she cried. "Then we have accounted for Mr. Sprouse, and I am no longer interested in the unraveling of the mystery surrounding the deaths of Roon and Paul," said Barnes. "There is nothing to keep me here any longer, Miss Cameron. I suggest that you allow me to escort you at once to your friends, wherever they—"

She was opposed to this plan. While there was still a chance that Sprouse might be apprehended in the neighborhood, or the possibility of his being caught by the relentless pursuers, she declined to leave.

"Then, I shall also stay," said he promptly, and was repaid by the tremulous smile she gave him. He was helplessly in love with this beautiful cousin of kings and queens. And when he thought of kings and queens he realized that beyond all question his love was hopeless.

"THE ACCIDENTAL HONEYMOON"—In which Captain Robert Warwick enacts the role of a young artist who is despondent and tired of life until a certain young girl dawns on his vision is being shown today. Young romance is the dominating influence of the story. There is much bright comedy, some unique and amusing situations and a steady flow of interesting incidents leading up to a fixed purpose. Robert Portland, the artist, would have carried out his threat of committing suicide if accident had not crippled the automobile in which a pretty young girl was riding. And it is he who goes to help the girl and falls so deeply in love that he thinks no more of suicide. Everything imaginable comes up to prevent the couple from marrying and, as a matter of fact, both have to feign accidents and land in an infirmary before they are able to frame up a happy ending. It is a picture which abounds in wholesome comedy. Robert Warwick has long been regarded as one of the big stars of the picture world. His talent and acting versatility have won him a remarkable screen following and now his patriotism is giving his admirers still further reasons for worshipping at his shrine. The popular actor is now with the American Expeditionary Forces in France. Elaine Hammerstein plays opposite Mr. Warwick. A selected comedy is also being shown.

THE PARAMOUNT.

"DAY DREAMS"—A Goldwyn attraction with Madge Kennedy, the delightful actress, supported by John Bowers and other prominent screen stars, is being shown today. There is a scene in the picture that will tickle the children and amuse their elders also. When Rumples Tilsen, the gander, finds the poodle eating out of his dish he walks straight into the house, seizes Primrose by the sleeve and makes her come out into the yard and drive the dog away. He also refuses to be left behind when Primrose sails away with her lover, and swims after the boat until he is seen and taken on board. The novelty of the goose and duck farm are big features of the picture. Several of the scenes will delight the youngsters. Miss Kennedy portrays the role of "Primrose," a miss of 18, who lives with her grandparents and helps them to look after a large flock of geese and ducks. Romance and reality run neck and neck through the plot. John Bowers appears in the role of Dan O'Hara, and Alec B. Francis as Grandfather Burn. A selected comedy is also being shown. Monday May Allison, the popular Metro star, will be seen in "Peggy Does Her Darndest," a five reel production.

PHYSICALLY FIT AT ANY AGE

It isn't age, it's careless living that puts men "down and out". Keep your internal organs in good condition and you will always be physically fit.

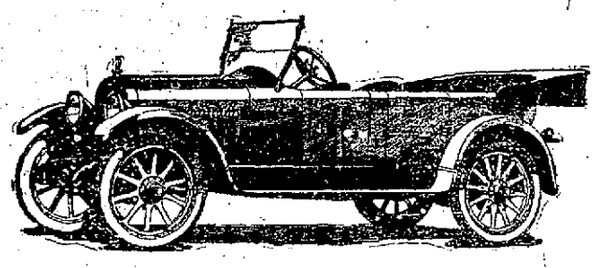

The kidneys are the most overworked organs in the human body. When they break down, under the strain and the deadly uric acid accumulates and crystallizes look out! These sharp crystals tear and scratch the delicate urinary channels causing excruciating pain and set up irritations which may cause premature degeneration and often do turn into deadly Bright's Disease.

One of the first warnings of sluggish kidney action is pain or stiffness in the small of the back, loss of appetite, indigestion or rheumatism.

Immediate Delivery of New Models

The temptation is to be superlative about the beauty and performance of the new Lexington Touring Car.

Unfortunately, if words could describe its fashionable design, color schemes, and accommodation they fail utterly as a substitute for a demonstration of its efficient operation.

In order to fully appreciate the success Lexington has achieved in perfecting the dependable six cylinder type of car, one must take the wheel and observe—

The smooth, silent starting; the quick get-away; the rhythmic flow and ebb of power, highly responsive to your wish; the emergency brake that operates with one finger; the complete confidence and restfulness one enjoys whether taking a hill on high or inching through traffic.

Lexington owners benefit by a substantial saving in fuel because of the exclusive Moore Multiple Exhaust System which produces more horse power with less fuel.

Let us demonstrate this new Touring Car.

THE FIRST ANNUAL CHILDREN'S FASHION SHOW Reveals Attractive and Useful 1919 Spring Styles

International Buyers' Club Presents Celebrated Juvenile "Movie" Actors in Latest Modes for Youngsters at Bush Terminal Sales Building, New York.

Adorable Little Models, Fitted to Perfection, Show Frocks for Play, School, Promenade, Dancing and More Formal Occasions; Overalls to Be Quite the Thing for Little Girls as Well as for Boys.

Adorable little models, fitted to perfection, the dresses being designed especially for the purpose for which each is intended, and worn with the ease, grace and nonchalance of a belle with a record of two or three successful seasons, promenaded across a flowered stage in New York the other day. They were dressed for every occasion, for play time for school, for dancing, or promenade and for such formal occasions as a fashionable wedding. They wore sunbonnets, rompers and all the other frocks that children frolic in from the time they get up until they go to bed.

It was the First Annual Children's Fashion Show and was held under the auspices of the International Buyers' Club in the great Bush Terminal Sales Building in Times Square, New York. That building is known as a paradise for women buyers and men buyers as well. But the buyers, who crowded the auditorium forgot, for the moment, all about business when the children took the stage. Then they began to analyze the possibilities of the lines displayed when actually worn by lively youngsters, obtaining a graphic idea of the human side of the merchandise. "But it was more than a Fashion Show," says the Dry Goods Economist, "for it showed the relation of a child's clothes to its health and comfort." It was, so far as is known the first fashion show ever staged exclusively of children.

The first group of garments, shown in the living exhibits, were for play and school wear. They included sweaters and caps, rompers, bloomer dresses and overalls. The exhibit included three general types of rompers, the full bloomers, the "loose-knee" bloomers, and the small trousered suits. The bloomer dresses were cut on straight lines from the shoulder, and came to the edge of the bloomers worn underneath. The overalls were regulation type, with straight trousers, bib and crossed straps. Overalls, it was evident, are to be quite the thing for little girls as well as for boys.

The general style of the sweater sets was the slip-on, and the caps were of the "Blue Devil" tam mode, dropping low on the side of the head.

There followed a number of "Spring sets" for older girls, composed of smart afternoon wash dresses with hats to match.

Reminiscent of the war was the Alsatian street set including a Navy blue serge cape with gray silk lining that was displayed by Virginia Heald Child Art Model. This set was simplest in design of all exhibited, but even at that it was finished with gray hand made braid. The hat was of blue.

The next group was composed of head wear worn by the young Moving Picture Star Madge Evans. Madge is a month over ten years and is the epitome of radiant girlish beauty. The hats were wide sailors with brims slightly turned down and long streamers hand-painted in some cases near the ends.

Followed a number of scenes with afternoon dresses among which were the straight line slips worn with white waists, together with such features as suspender effects, tabs holding sashes and half sashes started from under the arms and tied in the back. Several of these dresses had bell shaped sleeves. Favored trimmings were tiny frills, pleated ... groups of tucks cross bar ... tucks and embroidered motifs. The motifs were repeated in hats made to match the dresses.

The next act showed party dresses in which the children concerned staged a party. The youthful hostess wore a little chambray afternoon dress. Surprised by the arrival of her first guest she excused herself and put on a ruffled dress of deep cream lace and crepe de chine. Her guests wore dresses of organdie, georgette or lawn, the principal features of which were inverted pleated ruffles and apron effects.

And right here it may be said that the dictators of fashion for children dictate for the male as well as for the female—with favoritism toward none, as the numerous tucks and ruffles on Master Leland Chandler's waist amply proved. Master Chandler, juvenile actor on the legitimate stage took part in a wedding scene, which illustrated the correct order in the procession of the ring-bearers, flower girls, bridesmaids, bride, and train bearer, and the proper clothing for each one. Even the garments for school and playground were not so severe that they could not afford a twist and turn of a ruffle to lend them charm.

In connection with the Children's Fashion Show there was given a Child Welfare exhibition as it relates to clothes, the health of the child and the simplification of a mother's tasks in dressing her child. "The child is the soul of a child's clothes," said Prof William A. McKeever, head of the Department of Child Welfare, of the University of Kansas, "and to make a success in merchandising children's clothes you must first study deeply the needs and physiology of the child."

FAMOUS PEACE TREATIES

By H IRVING KING

(Copyright 1919 by the McClure Newspaper Syndicate)

THE PEACE OF WESTPHALIA, 1648.

A Religious Upheaval That Lasted for Almost a Lifetime

This gigantic conflict known as the Thirty Years' war was the longest war that has afflicted mankind, at least since the dawn of modern history, though that series of wars between France and England which extended from 1338 to 1453 is sometimes inaccurately referred to as the "Hundred Years' War."

The Thirty Years war is often called a religious war but it was a war in which religion was made the handmaid of politicians and the excuse of ambitious princes the mightiest kingdom on the Protestant side was the Catholic nation of France swayed by Cardinal Richelieu and the Lutheran elector of Saxony did not hesitate to ally himself with the oppressor of the Bohemian Protestants

First Overt Act of the War

The story that the first overt act of war arose from two soldiers of different nationalities approaching a well to get a drink and getting into a fight as to who should first have the bucket Tassoni the Italian poet has embalmed in his mock heroic poem "The Rape of the Bucket"—if he did not invent it. At any rate the stage of Europe was set for war and war came.

In May of 1618 the Bohemian Protestants rose in rebellion and the conflagration rapidly spread over continental Europe. Men were born grew to manhood and died knowing no world but a world at war. A man of fifty could only remember that it was before he attained his majority that there had been no war. War had come to seem the normal state of the world. In this war were made the military reputations of Gustavus Adolphus king of Sweden Tilly Wallenstein Turenne and Conde. Central Europe was the battleground and the fortunes of war favored first one side and then the other. It would take volumes to detail the campaigns and battles of this war and its shifting policies. In the long run the Protestant side, through the fighting power of the Swedes and the might of Catholic France got the best of it.

Meantime Europe was becoming utterly exhausted in men money and commerce and industry. The pope suggested negotiations for a peace and in 1641 Louis XIII of France signed the preliminaries for a conference. But Cardinal Mazarin who had succeeded Richelieu upon the death of that great statesman did not desire peace until he had further humbled some of the Catholic powers especially Spain

Peace Delegates Met at Munster

However three years after Louis had signed the preliminaries peace delegates met at Munster. The congress accomplished nothing the delegates spending their time in squabbles over matters of precedence and etiquette. It was hard work to get them to enter a common council chamber for fear one envoy would enter the room before the other or to sit at anything but a round table for fear one should sit at the head of it. Their retinues fought in the streets for the right of way. The conference was removed to Osnabruck with like results. The war still going on the fluctuations of battle caused a fluctuation of demands on the part of the envoys. The house of Austria split in two the emperor desiring the peace for which all central Europe was clamoring but Spain refusing to treat.

Finally in October of 1648 after four years of negotiation the treaty known as the Peace of Westphalia was signed at Munster. This treaty put an end to the period of so-called religious wars and also to the supremacy of the house of Austria in Germany. France and Sweden were the principal beneficiaries the latter receiving ... German possessions with three votes in the diet as well as an indemnity in money. France was confirmed in the possession of Verdun Toul and Metz and most of Alsace. Germany was left in a horrible state materially but ... won liberty of conscience and a promise that laws fixing a peace ... decided upon ... free ... of all the estates of the empire.

CLAIMED BY CHINA

Custom of Coloring Eggs Said to Have Originated in That Country.

The custom of presenting Easter eggs like so many other graceful customs originated probably in China. The following story accounts for the use of colored eggs by the Chinese.

Wen Kung one of the wisest rulers of the Tsin dynasty to elude the murderous snares of Li Ki his father's favorite wife was compelled to flee from his capital Phu. In his flight he was accompanied by his faithful friend Kiai Tse Tu. When after an absence of 19 years the emperor in 635 B. C. again returned to power Kiai obstinately refused all the rewards offered him and to escape the urgent solicitations of his grateful sovereign hid himself with his mother in the Nian Shang Shang (Cotton Mountains). The prince after a long vain search gave him up for lost and in memory of his unswerving devotion changed the name of the mountains into that they now actually bear, viz Kiao-Shan (Unswerving Mountains).

Now in connection with this story there is a legend that refers to the hard boiled eggs used by the Chinese at their spring festival. The men sent out in search of the fugitive set fire to the forest so as to drive him out from his hiding place. Whereupon Kiai took hold of a burning tree and thus perished in the flames. In memory of this event which according to tradition occurred in the third month the custom arose in northwestern China of never kindling a fire during the whole of this month. This custom soon became general and was known under the name of King Yen "smoke prohibition" or Hen Shi "cold meat." In view of the fact that only cold food was possible. Since then it became customary to eat hard boiled colored eggs during the whole of this month.

Every year at the time of the vernal equinox when the sun is in the sign of the ram (the rat of the Chinese zodiac) heralds everywhere proclaim the emperor's command to extinguish all the fires and not to rekindle them before the expiration of the third day. As during these three days no cooking can be done and consequently nothing but hard boiled eggs and other cold food is being consumed the Tsing Ming festival is popularly also spoken of as the feast of cold meat. How much earlier hard boiled eggs were in use in China is a matter that cannot be established with certainty. Their introduction however is traced to a very early period being ascribed to a prince of the King Tsu province who is said to have been the first to lay up supplies of colored eggs and present them to friends and relatives at the very season in which we celebrate our Easter holidays.

In the fourth century it was prohibited by the church to eat eggs during the forty days preceding Easter but as the heretic hens could not be prevented by this prohibition from laying eggs there was always a great abundance of eggs after the feast. They were given to the children and to make them more attractive were colored and otherwise adorned. This was probably the first step in the evolution of the Easter egg.

Easter

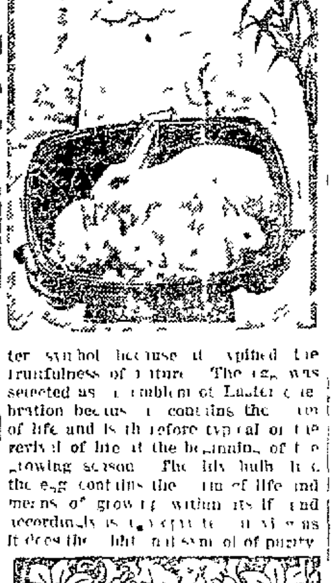

The sparrow's chirping note I hear,
The frog's shrill voice in marshes near,
The rippling sound of running streams,
The quickening of the meadow greens,
The silvery laugh of childhood sweet
At sunset hour my ear doth greet.

The flashing wing of lark and wren
Below the blue is seen again,
While my eyes peep through the earth
To welcome spring's returning birth,
All nature bursts forth from its prison
And cries, "Behold, the Lord is risen."

RABBIT AS EASTER SYMBOL

With the Egg It Has Alawys Been Associated as Appropriate to the Season

Easter originally was an oriental feast in honor of the coming spring or the rebirth of the year. The rabbit is noted for its prolific off-spring and that animal was chosen as an Easter symbol because it typified the fruitfulness of nature. The egg was selected as an emblem of Easter celebration because it contains the germ of life and is therefore typical of the revival of life at the beginning of the growing season. The lily bulb like the egg contains the germ of life and means of growing within itself and accordingly is ... the ... It does the ... of purity.

PLAYED JOKE ON THE HUNS

Sioux Indians Had Fun for Three Days Talking Over a Tapped Telephone Wire

Because of the nature of the country over which American troops fought in the Meuse Argonne offensive the Germans found it ... to cut in on our field telephone wires.

The commander of one brigade of artillery attached to an American division was perturbed by the enemy wire tappers in a heavily wooded section of the Argonne. Code messages from artillery observers were being intercepted by Boche listeners and the commander knew as all armies know that no code is impregnable when experts get working on it.

The artillery commander took up with the colonel of one of the line regiments the question of the Huns wire tapping activities. And the colonel hit upon an idea.

Two Indians both of proud Sioux lineage, members of one of his companies were assigned as telephone operators. One was to go forward with the artillery observer the other to remain at the brigade receiving end of the wire which the artillery commander was certain the Germans had that day tapped somewhere along the line.

Now when two Sioux Indians get talking to each other in their own tongue what they say sounds very much like code but isn't. Anyway it raised hob with the code experts of certain Prussian guard units.

The Sioux stuck on their jobs for three days and nights. They and the artillery commander and their own colonel enjoyed the situation immensely. If the Germans got any fun out of it they kept it to themselves.—Stars and Stripes

PRETTY TRIBUTE TO YANKS

Welsh Girl Enthusiastic Over the Good Qualities of the Boys Fighting in France

Testimony to the qualities of some of the American troops in France is given by a girl member of the woman's auxiliary army corps in a letter to her home folk at Cardiff, Wales. She says:

"We are stationed inside an American camp in a huge old French cavalry barracks. We are doing clerical work with hundreds and hundreds of Americans in the Central Records office. We deal with the whole American army records and excepting the cooks waitresses etc. all we odd 400 girls are really the Waacs of the American expeditionary force.

"We love the work we love the camp and the boys look after us well. They are splendid fellows. We have comfortable rooms a recreation room and hockey and are as happy as possible. And now we are getting up a grand revue called The Battle of Bourges. I am to be a French girl. The chorus is one of the best and the music all American. I'm afraid our music over there when we come ... won't have enough pep in it. Honestly the boys can play. Even ... who ... doing scavenger work in the camp can play the violin and ..."

Men's Full Dress

Will the returned soldiers who are said to be ordering colored evening suits be strong enough to overthrow the black tradition established by Lord Lytton?

Very few perhaps of those who for 90 years have meekly bowed to that tradition have known its origin says the London Chronicle. Until the publication of "Pelham" coats worn for evening dress were of different colors chiefly brown green or blue but the novelist makes one of his female characters tell the hero a blue coat does not suit his complexion. "You look best in black," she says which is a great compliment for people must be very distinguished in appearance to do so." And forthwith all men chose to take the compliment to themselves.

Predictions Near Fulfilment.

Napoleon prophesied at St. Helena that there would be no kings in Germany a century after his death. Ten years before the Huns broke loose Lord Roberts predicted that if a great European war came in our days Ferdinand Foch who was then an unknown officer would be one of the most famous actors in it.

A rather neat prediction was made as far back as 1896 by the redoubtable Frenchman Henri Rochfort marquess and anarchist.

"We cannot get Alsace Lorraine back by ourselves," he told an interviewer. "But one day the German eagle will get drunk with pride and will annoy the British bulldog. Then the bulldog will form an alliance with us to kill the eagle and we shall recover the lost provinces."—London Answers

EDITORIAL.

There is an ancient proverb which says "A rolling stone gathers no moss." We know of a Stone who rolled into Connellsville some six years ago and (in the terms of moss) gathered a host of friends and good will, through his earnest efforts to help along any project that came under his power, that might be envied by any man.

We are speaking of our friend and teacher, A. O. Stone, who so ably filled the position of manual training and mechanical drawing instructor in High School for the past six years.

During his residence in Connellsville, Mr. Stone made many friends, both in the school and in civic life through the interest he took in student and public affairs and we feel sure that there is not a student in Connellsville High School who is not sorry to see him go. Proverbially speaking again, Mr. Stone has decided to "roll on."

We know it is with a real regret that Mr. Stone leaves his many friends in Connellsville and in the High School to take up his new position as chief scout executive of Beaver county.

We hope Mr. Stone will not forget us and should he ever desire to visit the Connellsville High School in the future he will always find the warmest of welcomes awaiting him here.

We are glad to welcome into C. H. S. our new manual training instructor, A. R. Skomp, who will take up the work of Mr. Stone. Mr. Skomp was formerly a lieutenant in the Marines.

Tuesday morning of this week the students had the pleasure of being addressed by W. G. Gans, principal of the schools of Connellsville some years ago. Mr. Gans told the students where the first High School in Connellsville was located and how it was conducted, contrasting it with the present edifice.

Although Mr. Gans' term of office expired before our time and there are probably only a few who remember him as principal, we were very glad to meet the man who was so instrumental in promoting at that time the welfare of C. H. S.

Tickets are now on sale at the High School for the operetta "Pocohontas" to be played by the students and should anyone be overlooked by the ones selling tickets they will do the High School a favor by calling on the 'phone and having a student sent to their home with a supply. "Pocohontas" is played and sung solely by the students of High School and if there are any who do not think that "Pocohontas" will contain quite a few excellent solos and surpassing chorus work we only ask them to come to the performance on May 2 and let us prove it.

Even though C. H. S. lost a "captain" we still have two "lieutenants" to keep up the military standing of the school.

The boys and girls basketball teams of C. H. S. were tendered a delightful banquet in the High School dining room last Saturday evening under the direction of a committee composed of Mr. and Mrs. Fred A. Bode, Miss Margaret Baker, Miss Iva Waterbury and Miss Frances Brown. Speeches were made by the captains and various members of each team. Mr Bode, coach of the boys' team, and Miss Iva Waterbury, coach of the girls' team, also made speeches. A delightful talk on athletics was given by Miss Frances Brown of the faculty while Miss Margaret Baker entertained the banqueters with readings. Neat place cards and menus adorned the tables, the latter containing pictures of "Buddy" Bode, the mascot of the teams, on the inside of the covers.

A mass meeting of all the boys in the four upper classes of the High School was held Monday after school for the purpose of organizing volley ball teams. Six independent teams were organized and the following captains were elected: David Jones, Lloyd Menefee, Charles Henderson, Philip Oginsky, Clarence Dalton and Morris Melnick.

A meeting of the captains was held after the election to decide on players for the teams and to arrange a schedule.

SENIOR NOTES.

(By Chas. A. Sheetz.)

We are now in the third month of the publication of the Tiger and so far we have had good issues excepting a few. There are not many more issues and the remaining ones we want to be the best. Some have given a great deal of support to it but of late have been falling down. This we do not want to see because now is the time in which every one should be getting interested, when there are so many things happening which could be used. So, Seniors, we would like to see a bigger and better column from now on and this can not be without the hearty support of all.

In English Miss Armstrong said, "We will have a test tomorrow." Anna Marion Soisson spoke up and said, 'Oh, Miss Armstrong, don't have it tomorrow. We have a test in chemistry and it's going to be so-o-o hard, for it's all about iron."

In economics reformatories were being discussed. Mr. Allison said, "Did I mention about Bedford reformatory in this class? Have any of you ever been through it?"

Pupil: "No."

Mr. Allison: "It's a nice place, I've been all through it."

The other day in bookkeeping Theresa Reedine was caught singing "Sweeter as the Days Go By" to herself. Wonder if she meant that Mr. Stauffer is getting sweeter or whether the bookkeeping is becoming a pleasure.

In chemistry Tuesday "Steel" was being discussed. Mr. Folk asked Ray Wagaman how steel was made. He replied, "You put it in a kettle and heat it." George Richardson said, "Ray what do you think you are doing cooking a chicken?"

As a result of Wednesday's sudden rain storm which caught a great many students without umbrellas, James Laughrey has decided to buy up all the old ones and fix them so that he may rent them out in such cases of emergency.

The other day criminals were being discussed in economics. Mr. Allison said, "Charles, what science is it by which a person's character is told by the shape of the skull?" To which Charles Sheetz replied, "That bust be 'skullology,' Mr. Allison."

SOPHOMORE SAYINGS.

(By Ruth Clark.)

The High School operetta which is to be given soon in the school auditorium is quite well on its way. Many Sophomores have roles. The boys and girls have combined and are practicing often. The characters of the first and second acts have also rehearsed together. All those taking part in it are very ambitious to make it a great success, and if the good work is kept up as is being done now it will certainly prove a great success.

Miss Roake, who was a member of our faculty last year, is visiting us. She is very welcome. She has visited several classes, especially the Latin classes taught by Miss Dehn. On meeting some of the pupils she taught last year, she congratulated them on their good work.

The meeting of the Sophomore Literary society was postponed during this week on account of the rehearsal of the characters for the play.

Miss Myers one of the Sophomore English teachers, was in Pittsburg Monday attending the funeral of Mrs. John Vohr. Mrs. Vohr is the mother of Miss Grace Vohr, whom many of the students will remember as having taught Latin for a few weeks last year.

While practicing for the gym exhibition the girls formed their lines beside the swimming pool ready to march into the gym after they had been through the march once Miss Waterbury said, "Fall in." After going through the exhibition once we did not know whether Miss Waterbury wanted us to fall in the pool for being so awkward or back in the lines again for an encore.

It appears as though there will be no one living before long the way the "Died" signs are displayed in High School.

AMONG THE JUNIORS.

(By Earl Lucius)

Kenneth Evans and Gladys Hauoke, our afternoon visitors, started the new week well by coming to school Monday morning.

On Monday afternoon Nanna Hood had her weekly vacation from shorthand class.

Miss Wethe, Miss Baker and Nanna Hood think they are very much imposed upon in the Tiger, but if it was not for these three we would have a very small Junior column. They ought to be flattered that we think of them so often.

The Junior literary societies did not have their regular meeting yesterday on account of Good Friday, (which means school vacation) and will meet next Friday.

Miss Armstrong: "Can't you imagine a person with a cipher face?"

Clarence Dalton: "No, it'd be empty then."

The student sat in his room on a chair.
With a look on his face of keen despair.
Outside his chums were playing ball.
And oft to him there sent a call;
He wanted to play with all his heart,
But from his books he could not depart.

He had a lesson hard to learn,
It made his heart with anguish burn.
He wanted to throw those books away
And rush outside, to run and play.
But still kept on grinding there,
Gnashing his teeth and pulling his hair.
